Q: Solution to limit the number of of messages sent in IBM Worklight 6.1 based on Polling period I'm working on a project based on IBM Worklight 6.1, I need to send a push notification each time the user login in the system (polling) but in a first time the user will receive the messages, and then the user will not receive any more messages each 30 days (period). I tried to use the Service worker method but I'm not sure it's working. I've made a PollingService with a 1m connection timeout and an interval of 10 seconds. The problem is that I'm really not sure what is the best approach to this problem. Any help would be appreciated. Thanks in advance! A: Using a Scheduler to send a Push notification. The Scheduler is able to execute a customized function that you can use in order to send your Notification. The basic idea is to extend the Scheduler class and declare a method that send the Notification. Here the example of the implementation: // create the notification object var notification = { "title": "Title", "text": "Body" }; // execute the function that send the notification var scheduler = WL.Scheduler
